

Structure causative :

To make someone do something

S'utilise avec tous les temps et aspects.

Ex : It makes me smile.

She made him wait.

He has made.

He has made it easy.

He was making it difficult.

He will make it simple.

It is making it understandable.

It had made me what I was cause

conséquence

Formulation : S1 + made + S2 + V + C make

The press is making use more aware of what happening the world.

Trace écrite :

This object looks like a submachine gun which is made of camera parts. This equipment is used by journalist or reporters.

Information is a weapon that can be used to defend the rights of the populations, expose scandals and denounce wrong doings. This poster must be part of an awareness campaign. (faire prendre conscience : to raise awareness). It's aim is probably to make people aware that the freedom of the press has to be protected, especially in countries where journalists have become targets.

Information is actually a counter power. This is why journalists, in some countries, are at risk of being killed, jailed/imprisoned, threatened, arrested, persecuted, executed or taken hostage.

However, as shown in the second part of the quote, information may also become dangerous when put into the wrong hands.

Indeed, individuals or websites can misinform or falsely alarm the publicity spreading false information or distorting the perception of an event. They can also wrongly accuse people.